

HAVANA.
The Cantoy Prisoners.
 FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
 HAVANA, Monday, July 5, 1850.
 To the Editor of the Tribune:
 The sloop-of-war Albany, Capt. Randolph, entered this port on the 6th inst. from Pensacola, al well. The frigate Congress and the sloop German down are to sail to-morrow morning, we presume to remain in the neighborhood until some line of action is determined by the Government of the United States. We hear it said on the street that the frigate goes to Rio, and proceeds on her voyage without further detention ; but this does not seem consistent with the condition of our present relations, also that the Alagoas goes home, bearing the

The officers of the Navy have been assured from high places, that the prisoners are treated with great kindness—and one has said, whose words should be truth, that they were "treated so well that it would be cause of regret to them to be released." Those who are familiar with the Spanish national character, and the system of prison discipline as it obtains here, will be aware how much be-vevance and kindly attention mingles with the treatment of the prisoned. If, since the demand for the release of the Contoy prisoners has been made and declined, they have to wait the exercise of Royal clemency at Madrid, why is all Simen, Solomon and Jotham. Simen, the father of the deceased, was a soldier in the French war of 1756. Jotham enlisted into the Revolutionary army and in 1777 was the Lieutenant of the company commanded by Capt. Jacob Allen, of Bridgewater, at the taking of Burgoyne, and on the fall of Capt. Allen in the engagement, took the command of the company. Capt. Jotham Ames remained in the army until he was disbanded on the banks of the Hudson, in Oct. 1783, when he became a member of the Society of Cincinnati of Massachusetts.

In 1786 Capt. Jotham Ames bought a farm in West Bridgewater, and resided there sixteen or seventeen years, when he sold out and moved to Middlefield near Cooperstown, N. Y. and there died May 9, 1812, in the 60th year of his age. Though twice married, Capt. Jotham Ames never had any children. The nephew, Mr. Alexander Ames, on the decease of his uncle Capt. Jotham Ames, became entitled by beirship to a disbarment on the part of the Society of the Cincinnati of Massachusetts, but neglected to apply until last November (1846,) when he took the preliminary steps, and had been divorced, and had his usual health, would have been admitted, made the usual declaration and taken his seat as a member on the Fourth of July last.
